

Aquilegia sibirica Lam.

WHO

WHO

Mongolian name

Sibiri Udval, Khokh udval, Zusten tsetseg

Tibetan name

Udval ombo

English name

Siberian Columbine

Synonym: A. bicolor Ehrh. [1]

Description: Perennial herb, with rhizome. Stem 25–70 cm tall, glabrous, more or less branched near the inflorescence. Leaves one to two times ternate, leaflets wide reniform, with long petiolule, divided not reaching the middle into three segments. Flowers blue, 5 cm in diameter, sepals 2–3 cm long, 1–2 cm wide, petals blue, with yellowish or light margin, shorter than sepals. Spur curved like a hook. Follicles five, 2 cm in length.

Distribution: Khovs., Khent., Khang., Khovd, Dund. Khalkh.