

Lagotis integrifolia (Willd.) Schischk.

WHO

Mongolian name

Bukhel navchit khonlin

Tibetan name

Khonlen

English name

Entireleaf

Synonym: L. glauca var. pallasii Trautv., L. pallasii Rupr., L. glauca subsp. borealis var. pallasii Maxim., L. glauca auct. non Gaertn., L. altaica (Willd.) P.A.Smirn., Gymnandra integrifolia Willd., G. altaica Willd., G. elongata Willd., G. pallasii Cham. et Schldl. [1].

Description: Glabrous perennial herbs. Stem 10–30 cm tall, simple, erect or ascending at the base. Radical leaves leather-like thick, with stalks as long as blade, oval, slightly dentate, cauline leaves smaller, sessile, lanceolate or ovate, entire, or somehow dentate. Flowers in terminal spike. Bracts 7–9 mm long, bluish,

WHO